The Academic Network of Global Education and Learning (ANGEL), in collaboration with the Global Education Network Europe (GENE), Global Education Research Network in Finland, the Finnish Educational Research Association, and the University of Oulu Graduate School (tbc) are organizing a two-day conference at the University of Oulu, Finland.

Focus and aim

The conference focuses on research on global education and learning. The aim is to provide early career researchers with an inspiring platform for discussing, re-visiting and analysing the complexity of conceptualisations. Invited leading scholars in global education and learning will share their knowledge and research in conceptualisations framing our understanding of global education and learning. The expectation is that through critical constructive dialogue the participants will re-check their standpoint or re-conceptualize their research approaches.

Virtual participation

For accessibility and environmental purposes, we want to make virtual participation as easy and meaningful as possible. The plenary sessions will be accessed online (zoom link will be provided). In addition, the conference will host a twitter conference.
